INTRODUCTION

Incoterms are international rules published by the ICC for the interpretation of trade terms eg EXW, FOB, CFR, CIF, CPT etc. Exporters, Importers, Bankers and Insurers, Freight Forwarders and Carriers need to be aware of the new changes in Incoterms 2010 which have critical implications to their business especially on the following:

- Carriage of goods between seller/buyer
- Acquisition of transit/cargo insurance
- Export and Import clearance requirements
- Assumption of risks for loss and damage
- Allocation of costs between seller & buyer

The changes in the new Incoterms rules are massive, sweeping as well as practical. Four terms under the old Incoterms 2000 were taken out. Two new terms DAT (Delivered At Terminal) and DAP (Delivered At Place) have been added. The ship's rail is no longer mentioned as the point of delivery in FOB, CFR and CIF! Who should pay for terminal handling charges are now being clearly specified.

Incoterms 2010 promise to be very concise and more relevant to business transactions and cargo security issues which are now at the forefront of the transportation agenda of numerous countries.

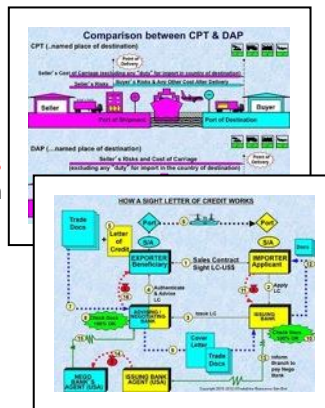

Our new two day totally revised Incoterms course featuring renowned master trainer Mr. BILLY FONG, who will use extensive colourful graphics and diagrams will cover the following contents.
